Write each child's name on the To line so nobody gets missed out

Thank You Notes

For afterwards, the bit everyone forgets

What to put on the invitation

- Start and end time

Without an end time parents don't know whether to stay, and the party doesn't end.

- Costumes, yes or no

Say it plainly. A child in costume where nobody dressed up has a miserable afternoon.

- Drop off or stay

The single most useful line on the card. Parents plan their afternoon around it.

- Allergies

One line asking parents to tell you saves asking everyone separately.

- RSVP by a date

Four or five days before. You need numbers for food and party bags.

- Your phone number

Not just your name. Somebody will be lost outside your house in the dark.

Printing tips

Print one test page first. Printer margins vary.

Set the printer to Actual Size, not Fit to Page, or the cut lines drift.

Card stock if they go in bags or pockets. Paper comes home as pulp.

Send them two to three weeks before the party.
